Drilling rig engineers oversee the planning & management of oil-rig drilling operations for petroleum companies.

Can you meet an oil rig engineer online?

The odds of meeting a genuine oil rig engineer online are slim. Certain professions naturally attract attention in online dating--doctors, military personnel, and, increasingly, offshore oil rig workers. Scammers have found that posing as oil rig engineers or supervisors is an effective way to gain trust and manipulate their victims.

Who is responsible for drilling a rig?

The drilling of each well shall be commenced without delay (unless such delay is ordered by Operator) after operations are completed at the previous well, if any. Contractor shall be responsible for the operation of the Rig, including moving operations and positioning on drilling locations as required by Operator.

Do you work on oil rigs?

While some people do work on oil rigs, this profession is a common cover for scammers. If your online contact mentions working on an oil rig early in the conversation, proceed with caution. Scammers often use the remote location as an excuse for why they can't meet or communicate regularly.
